In 1889 one Wm. R. McClain, an Indian man, was brought from Beaver to Provo and placed in the asylum. Yesterday his brother E. S. McClain of Mc-Cormick, Jefferson county, Mo., called upon him at the asylum. The Indian brother recognized his same brother at once, though he had not seen him before since 1877, and recalled many incidents and asked questions about many persons and family affairs that had entirely escaped the memory of the same man. The family have been diligently searching for the lost brother for years and it is only within the last few weeks that they learned the poor fellow was in the asylum here. He refused to go back until some mighty wrong he imagined had been done him is righted. The unfortunate man was taken to his home notwithstanding his refusal to go willingly. He and his brother departed on today's train.

THE young men, Whitlock and Lundholm, were last evening bound over to await the action of the grand jury by Justice DeMolay. The boys' story is to the effect that they borrowed the wagon, harness and one horse from Mr. Parnell for one day and two nights, and perhaps a second day; that they went then and got the Hinckley horse, Whitlock thinking it made no difference whether he took that horse or one of his own he had at the Hinckley place where he was stopping. The two then placed two girls aboard who were headed for Salt Lake and who intended to walk if they could get there no other way. The boys got the girls to Salt Lake and had placed the team in Carson's livery stable waiting the passing of a rain storm. It was then that they were arrested on a telegram from Sheriff Brown. Mr. Parnell insists that Whitlock and Lundholm borrowed the outfit saying they were going to Springfield only.

THREE transients, John Harrington, George Harrington and Eugene Parkitt, appeared before Justice Booth this morning. After his honor heard both sides of the story of their difficulties he sentenced them to one day each in the city jail for vagrancy. It seems that the trouble which brought evening in the jail house run in the basement of the Excelsior block by Wm. O'Neill, colored, John Harrington says that he ordered two meals.
They were spread upon the table and his brother was about to sit down and eat them. Before doing so they asked O'Neill what his charge for the two meals would be. He answered, "65 cents," and then on second thought said, "Oh no, I'll have to charge you 80 cents." He was told that the men could not afford that much, and they refused to eat or pay for the meals.
O'Neill stepped to the door and a scrap ensued in which more wind than blows was exchanged. Policeman Mc-Don came upon the scene. On the way to jail Parrott joined his pals and what gave every evidence of becoming a lively scrimmage occurred, but all quieted down. The fellows are those who have been about the city the past few days working the old gold ring fak.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

An Incident Not Especially Surprising in Life at a Seaside Resort.

There was quite an exciting episode at one of the leading hotels at Long Branch the early part of last week in which the youngest daughter of a prominent New Yorker, whose family is summering here, and a dapper young fellow, a clerk in a New York life insurance office, took active part. The young lady had become enamored with the dashing young clerk and thought that an elopement with him would be a fitting climax for her season's sojourn at the seaside. Accordingly the young lady made all the necessary arrangements for a hasty exit from the hotel, and as she was about to jump into the carriage in which sat her trembling lover she was seized by her mother, who quickly called the hotel officer to her assistance and succeeded in getting the erring girl back to her room.

The young man, who had succeeded in making good his escape, was later in the evening found at the Pennsylvania clubhouse by the enraged father, and an exciting scene ensued. The young man was threatened with an immediate arrest for attempting abduction, but friends of the poor clerk interceded, and the matter was hushed up. Instead of spending a happy honeymoon the young lady has been sent to her aunt's, pending the reopening of her boarding school.—New York Telegram.

Preserving Wood.

It is said that wood may be thoroughly preserved by being impregnated with a strong solution of calcium bisulphate and afterward with creosote. The young
school.—New York Telegram.
